TRUCKER DIES IN HEAD-ON CRASH

'I LOVE YOU: TO HECK WITH WAGE BILL'

Jap Solon Quits Post; Love-Making In Parley Puts Him On Short Wagon

TOKYO, Dec. 14—Sanroku Izumiya, Japan's amorous finance minister who precipitated a government crisis by trying to kiss two women legislators, resigned today from both the cabinet and his seat in the parliament.

He also went on the wagon "for at least one day."

At his home where he was nursing a beauty of a hangover, Izumiya proclaimed:

"I am not going to drink another drop of whisky or wine for at least one day." He hastened to add:

"However, I assure you I am not becoming a permanent teetotaler."

Izumiya's public love-making caused Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida to summon his cabinet into an emergency session at dawn.

At this extraordinary meeting, the government heads accepted Izumiya's proffered resignation as finance minister. He was declared guilty of "conduct unbecoming a cabinet officer."

Izumiya, his romantic impulses rising to the surface after imbibing that "one too many," tried to seize and kiss the two women representatives, Harue Yamashita, a Democrat, and Toshi Matsuo, a Socialist.

The consequent uproar delaying passage of a supplementary budget bill.

When comparative quiet was restored, Miss Yamashita arose on the floor of the diet and solemnly accused Izumiya of having dragged her from a finance committee meeting into the lobby.

She declared indignantly: "He attempted to engage in an insulting act, saying:

"I love you and I don't care what happens to the wage bill."

To a Japanese woman a kiss, by tradition, is a highly insulting procedure.

Socialist Miss Matsuo, not quite so attached to ancient Japanese tradition, took direct action in the Western manner—when Izumiya attempted to force her into an osculatory display.

Protesting to the secretary of the cabinet, Miss Matsuo testified:

"I slapped him on the cheek. And if you don't believe me, examine the marks I left."

Jews Claim New Pogroms

Arabs Persecuting Israelites, Report

TEL AVIV, Dec. 14—Israeli officials said today that the problem of 800,000 "hostage" Jews in Arab countries—who reportedly have been victims of pogroms and persecution—is the gravest facing the new state.

Israeli Immigration Commissioner Moshe Shapiro said that "top priority" will be given to the migration of these Jews to Israel. He charged:

"Since the adoption of the United Nations partition plan, there has been systematic persecution of these Jews by the Arabs. Pogroms are common and Jewish business and property have been confiscated."

Israel, he said, has already begun an ambitious immigration program whose tempo will increase now that hostilities are virtually at an end.

By the close of 1948, Shapiro disclosed, 115,000 refugees and displaced persons will have arrived in Israel. Shapiro said that this figure exceeds the total immigration to the U. S. from Pearl Harbor to V-J Day.

WHILE BRINGING the Jews from Arab states to Palestine, Israel will also seek to clear Germany of all Jews who want to settle in the Holy Land by the close of 1949.

Shapiro also disclosed that the complete transfer of Jews from Bulgaria and Yugoslavia soon will be completed and that large-scale immigration is expected to begin shortly from Romania and Hungary.

An official of the Israeli immigration ministry now is enroute to expedite the migration of more than 9,000 refugees from Shanghai. These Jews, originally refugees from Germany and Poland, have been in Shanghai 10 years.

The 11,000 Jews held in Cyprus camps, since attempting to run the British blockade, are also expected in Israel soon.

Shapiro said that Americans also are entering Israel in increasing numbers. Newcomers from the U. S., he said, include investors, technicians, craftsmen and many veterans.

Ohioan Held In Baby's Death

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14—Detectives continued today their investigation into the slaying of a baby born prematurely in a hotel to a vacationing Ohio mother.

Mrs. Dorothy Green, 28, of Prospect, O., was held in General hospital prison ward on a charge of suspicion of murder after a maid found the infant's body in a linen-wrapped package.

Cecilia Gobaldon, the maid, said she was prepared to burn the bundle when she found the body. The infant's arms had been severed.

Carl Green, 38-year-old railroad employee and the woman's husband, said he did not know his wife was pregnant.

PLATFORM TO BE FOLLOWED

'Truman Deal' Is Expected In Message To Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—President Truman will go before the new Democratic Congress in joint session Wednesday, Jan. 5, to present in person his highly important program of legislation, both domestic and international, for the next 12 months.

This was learned today as the chief executive and his top advisers mapped out the program for the "Truman Deal" that may prove to be the administration's pattern for the next four years.

The chief executive's dramatic "State of the Union" address will be presented two days after the new Congress convenes.

It will be a comparatively brief message and will run about 30 minutes.

His budget message, the highlight of which will be a recommendation for a balanced budget, probably will follow two to three days later.

The President's third message will be on economics which will bear the burden of his recommendations for anti-inflation control.

THE PRESIDENT will, it is understood, remind Congress of the basis on which a Democratic administration was elected in November.

He will read the roll on two things: The carrying out of the Democratic platform to the letter and the 21-point program of social reform legislation which he has repeatedly recommended during the last three years.

Mr. Truman is understood to feel deeply that the burden of taxation to meet the necessary expenses of running the country, both for new defense outlays and continuation of the European Recovery Program, must rest fairly upon those able to bear it.

The President repeatedly has referred to the $4.8 billion tax reduction of the Republican-majority 80th Congress as a "rich man's bill."

It is understood that recommendations for anti-inflation control.

THE NEW funds bring total ECA allotments to $4,900,200,000 including loans. Hulley said the remaining $99,800,000 of the original $5 billion will be used for administrative expenses, the ECA guaranty program and strategic materials projects.

Hulley said: "We expect to stop issuing buying authorizations to the Marshall Plan countries on Jan. 31. After that date and until the first of April we will not issue authorizations except, perhaps, amendments or corrections to previous announcements."

Hulley explained that there would be little or no effect in ECA's operations since many recent authorizations to the recovery nations have been on a forward basis.

It had been expected that ECA would have enough cash to continue through April 3. At that time it was expected that Congress would have provided another $1.25 billion for operations through June.

Administrator Paul G. Hoffman will ask for the additional funds when Congress convenes.

President's Pay Too Low-Hoover

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—Herbert Hoover urged Congress today to boost the President's pay by increasing the White House expense account.

The former President also suggested that Congress "study" income tax exemptions for the chief executive. Hoover said he advocated the White House salary boost through allowances rather than a straight pay boost because of the income tax.

At the same time, Arthur S. Flemming, former Civil Service Commission chairman, proposed that the $75,000 annual salary of the President be doubled.

Chinese Commies Make First Try To Ford Yangtze

NANKING, Dec. 14—The first organized Communist attempt to cross the mighty Yangtze river and outflank Nanking was reported today while other Red forces struck within 40 miles north of the capital.

In North China, meanwhile, Communist shells began falling on the western fringes of Peiping as that ancient metropolis faced a possibly imminent siege.

President Chiang Kai-Shek's government was confronted with what appeared to be a rapidly approaching climax in China's civil war.

Reuters reported in London that rumors Chiang has resigned are sweeping Chinese business circles in the South China British colony of Hong Kong, with Vice-President Li Tsung-Jen reportedly slated to assume the presidency.

ECA Spends $5 Billion

U.S. Aid Fund Running Out

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—The last of the $5 billion available for European recovery was allocated today and an ECA official said the money would keep the agency operating until Jan. 31.

ECA approved allocations totaling $535,600,000 for the first three months of 1949, but John Hulley, ECA special assistant, said the money will be exhausted by the end of January.

The allocations announced today were:

Austria, $18 million in grants; Belgium and Luxembourg and Belgian overseas territories, $22,500,000 in loans and $46,800,000 in grants; Denmark, $6 million in loans and $10 million in grants; France, $2 million in loans and $121,300,000 in grants; Bizonal Germany, $28,900,000 in grants; French zone $17,300,000 in grants; Greece $18 million in grants; Iceland $4 million in loans; Ireland $29 million in loans; Italy $17 million in loans and $18 million in grants; Norway, $9,900,000 in grants; Sweden $12 million in loans and $1 million in grants; Netherlands $52 million in loans and $22,800,000 in grants; Britain $3 million in loans and $74,900,000 in grants.

At the same time, the House Un-American Activities Committee openly hinted for the first time that Navy secrets were stolen for Soviet agents.

Previously, stolen State Department documents and material allegedly pilfered from the U. S. Bureau of Standards have figured in the case.

Rankin made his "treason" assertion at an open hearing of the committee.

Acting Chairman Mundt, (R) S. D., inferentially confirmed Rankin's statement and agreed that possible treason is involved in the Communist spy investigation.

THE DEVELOPMENT came during questioning of Mrs. Marion Bachrach of New York, who described herself as a writer employed by the Communist Party and a sister of John Abt, ex-government official named in the spy case.

Mrs. Bachrach was called as a "mystery witness" whose testimony, the committee said, might or might not prove "important" in the investigation.

Abt was identified last Summer by Whittaker Chambers, self-confessed ex-Communist agent, as the leader of a Communist spy ring.

CARRYING A BRIEF CASE containing five rolls of microfilm of stolen secret Government documents, and accompanied by William A. Wheeler, investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee, Rep. Richard M. Nixon, (R) Cal., member of the committee, enters the Federal building in New York City to testify for one hour as a subpoenaed witness before the New York federal 'spy' grand jury. The films were taken from a hollowed-out pumpkin on the Maryland farm of Whittaker Chambers, confessed ex-Communist courier. Earlier the grand jury called a "woman mystery witness" also shown entering the federal building. She was identified later as the former Eleanor Nelson, described as a one-time government employee and ex-official of the CIO-United Federal Workers of America. Her connection with the spy probe, if any, was not made clear.

Spy Hunters Say Treason Involved In Panel Probe

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—Rep. Rankin, (D) Miss., declared today that government secrets were stolen for a Communist spy ring "after Pearl Harbor" and that treason charges therefore are involved in the espionage investigation.

At the same time, the House Un-American Activities Committee openly hinted for the first time that Navy secrets were stolen for Soviet agents.

23rd Road Death Is Marked Here

Huron Man, 33, Is Victim

Pickaway County's 23rd traffic fatality was chalked up early Tuesday on U. S. Route 23 four miles south of Circleville.

Carl Mitchell, 33, of Huron Route 2 was killed almost instantly when his truck collided head-on with a tractor trailer car carrier, driven by Walter S. Dail, 41, of Bluefield, W. Va., about 6 a. m.

Dail was rushed to Berger hospital following the smashup and treated for multiple lacerations, fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. He is reported in "fair" condition by hospital attaches.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells said Mitchell had been driving a flat bed truck south at the time and the Dail tractor-trailer was traveling north.

The patrolman stated that as Mitchell passed through the Sippico Creek bridge, Dail apparently misjudged the width of the bridge and slammed on his brakes. The tractor-trailer outfit jackknifed, according to the patrolman, throwing it into the path of the oncoming truck.

THE CAB of the empty car carrier struck Mitchell's truck on the left front fender, and was carried about by the momentum so that it faced southward in the highway.

Mitchell's vehicle was smashed against the guard railing 15 feet south of the bridge, wedged in by the cab. The trailer portion of the carrier juttied endwise across the road, the rear smashing into the east guardrail.

Wells said court action probably will be taken against Dail for improper operation when he is released from the hospital.

He added, however, that while Dail may be tried for the mishap, blame for the mishap rests with the bridge itself, notorious for the number of accidents in recent years.

He said guard rails on both sides of the bridge flange out.

FOREIGN MONEY IS TAKEN

German Smuggling Take Estimated At $60 Million

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—The Army said today that black market operators smuggled approximately $60 million worth of goods out of Western Germany during the year ending July 1.

The Economic Cooperation Administration immediately disputed the figure and said it was "excessively high." ECA estimated that smuggling activities in Western Germany will total about $10 million.

ECA added, however, that it could not be sure of the amount and the Army said it "wished the figure was as low as the ECA estimates."

Army spokesmen said their figure represented about 10 percent of the estimated $650 million which Germany will earn this year through its export trade. ECA officials said if the amount is correct it would have "serious" effect on the progress of recovery in the three German sectors.

IT WAS emphasized, however, that smuggling will not result in the ECA spending additional funds to make up the losses incurred when the materials are secreted out of the military zones.

The Army and ECA said that black market operators and German civilians are smuggling such consumer goods as cameras, glasses, binoculars and other materials which can be carried unnoticed across the borders.

These materials do not of themselves contribute directly to recovery but officials explained that, sold on international markets, they earn the foreign money necessary for trade.

The flow of currency between countries has been an important part of the recovery program because it stimulates trade between the nations.

An Army official termed the situation in Western Germany as "pretty bad." He added that the trouble lies particularly at the customs houses and among the border patrol. The spokesman declared:

"We don't have the personnel to cope with the situation." He added that Gen. Lucius Clay, Army commander in Europe, and other officials are doing everything possible to destroy the smuggling operation.

cross from the north to the south bank of the broad Lower Yangtze was reported to have been made last night near Hsinking, 100 miles east of Nanking.

More than ten junks filled with Red troops tried to ferry across under cover of darkness for the apparent purpose of establishing a bridgehead on the south bank near Kiangyin, which lies opposite Hsinking.

NATIONALIST sources said government naval craft repulsed the attempt, sinking more than half the Communist junks.

Dispatches from the North China front related, meantime, that students of the National University in Peiping's western suburb of Tsinghua rushed into the walled city as Communist shells started falling on the university's campus.

Communist troops were said to have captured the airfield five miles from Peiping, and were reported closing in on the city from four directions. Government commanders in the area said the situation had "suddenly deteriorated" but added that Peiping and Tientsin "would be defended to the last."

Child Neglect Faces Dancer

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14—Mrs. Muriel Christopher, 22-year-old Chicago dancer, today was to be turned over to Lorain, O., authorities who want her on a warrant for child neglect.

The night club performer, who hails from Detroit, yesterday was cleared of suspicion of having taken part in a series of robberies in Chicago.

Police still are searching for her companion, William Aebly, 22, who escaped when Mrs. Christopher called them from a downtown hotel last Thursday to turn him in. Pictures of Aebly, an escaped convict, have been identified by eight of the Chicago robbery victims.

GUAM, Dec. 14—American authorities, armed with several clues, including a length of rope, conducted a grim search throughout Guam today for the assault killers of beautiful Ruth Farnsworth.

Officials searching for the perpetrators of the crime that rocked the far Pacific island bastion disclosed they have narrowed the hunt down to several suspects. As yet, however, there were no arrests.

'Best Friend' Given Burial With Trimmings

SADIESVILLE, Ky., Dec. 14—A ten-year-old pet bulldog was buried in the Sadieville cemetery, with a satin-lined casket, pink and blue ribbons, a concrete vault and a $55 stone marker.

The dog, a toy which has been with Sadieville Druggist Ford Whitson and his wife, Catherine since she was a pup, was named "Taters."

The identification was chiseled on the footstone and the pet was buried in the family lot as a score of friends and townspeople watched.

Whitson said the dog just died in her sleep—probably from a heart attack Saturday night.

The child-sized casket, with a tiny pillow and a white and blue blanket, was ordered from an undertaker and the concrete vault was brought to Sadieville from Louisville, more than 100 miles away.

The procession of private cars of the Whitsons and their relatives and friends trailed from the home to the village cemetery and the dog was laid to rest, at a cost of "several hundred dollars, altogether."

Whitson declined to say just how much it all cost, exactly, because his undertaker friend gave it to him "at cost."

He quoted the undertaker as saying he had "never seen anything like it in his life."

King George Is 53 Today

LONDON, Dec. 14—Britons wished ailing King George "happy birthday" and hoped for their monarchs speedy recovery.

The king, who is 53 today, probably will be permitted to leave his sick-bed for a few hours for a family gathering. Princess Elizabeth and her month-old son, who will be christened tomorrow, will be present along with the rest of the royal family.

British newspapers this morning, in extending the customary greetings to the king, also emphasized the last report by royal physicians who said that the ruler has made "substantial progress."

Mrs. Bachrach, short, plump and dark-haired, proved a stubborn witness who declined on constitutional grounds to answer most of the questions asked her by Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator, and committee members.

She replied: "I did not." She gave the same response when asked whether she had ever copied any documents "removed" from the Bureau of Standards and the Navy Department.

This is the first time that the committee has openly hinted that Navy documents might have been stolen.

Domestically, it is understood that in addition to taxes, the emphasis of the President's first message will deal with:

1. Legislation for controlling high prices.
2. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act with, in the main, restoration of the original Wagner Act.
3. Immediate federal aid to remedy the nation's acute shortage of both home-owned and rental housing.

In the foreign field, the President will recommend immediate and sustained continuation of the European Recovery Program with the possibility that a new lend-lease arrangement on military equipment aid may be worked out for the Western Democracies.

Capitol Records also planned a quick start on new issues, but Decca officials said they were "in no rush."

Industry sources said it is doubtful whether many of the new recordings will find their way to store shelves in time for Christmas.

However, RCA-Victor pointed out that when the last union ban ended in 1944, the company had two records in the hands of eastern dealers within 48 hours.

Policy Mogul's Home Blasted

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14—An explosion rocked the Cleveland home of Charles E. Fellows, alleged policy operator, early today in what police believe is another phase of the city's policy war.

Although the explosion demolished the front porch of the east side home and shattered many windows, no one was injured. The type of bomb has not been determined yet.

Police reported that Fellows has been arrested 25 times in the last 13 years, but they could not recall at present whether he had ever been convicted.

"This usually causes one or the other of the approaching drivers to veer or jam brakes, and an accident such as the one Tuesday results," he said.

Bids for widening the bridge are to be opened next Tuesday, but expiration date on the contract to be awarded is set at July 31, 1950.

Mitchell had been employed as driver for the J. Schlessman and Son Co. of Waverly. He was hauling a corn sheller on a company truck at the time of the mishap.

He is survived by his widow, Helen; a 2-year-old daughter, Martha; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mitchell of Huron Route 2.

His body was brought to Deffenbaugh Funeral Home here pending arrangements.

Newest Stamp Honors Writer

Another three-cent commemorative postage stamp was on sale in Circleville postoffice Tuesday.

The new stamp is dedicated to Joel Chandler Harris, writer, and features a portrait of him as its central design. Under his portrait are the traditional book, scroll and quill.

The stamps are odd sized, 70 to the sheet. Only 7,000 will be sold from the local postoffice.

Red Cross Blood Program Unites City With Nation

Participation in the National Blood Program of the American Red Cross by the Pickaway County Chapter fulfills a community need and unites this community with a nationwide project of far-reaching implications, according to Karl Johnson, chairman of the blood committee for the local chapter.

Selection of the American Red Cross to head up a national project came as a result of the outstanding work done by the organization during the war.

Medical, public health, and hospital authorities recognized that the Red Cross could foster the program needed on a national scale. Army, Navy, and Veterans' hospital groups also saw the need for universal blood collection.

5 Countians At Grange Meet

Turney Glick, deputy master of Pickaway County Granges, along with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Grace and Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler, are in Cleveland attending the Ohio State Grange meetings.

Mayor Thomas A. Burke of Cleveland extended an official welcome to some 3,000 members of the Ohio State Grange Monday night in Cleveland.

The 3,000 are the first of more than 15,000 expected to attend the three-day meeting of Ohio's oldest and largest farm organization which opened officially Tuesday morning.

Meetings of the Deputy Master Association and the juvenile deputy masters association will be held Tuesday along with the Grange's first business sessions.

Saltcreek Class To Give Play

"The Groom Said No," a three act comedy, will be presented by the junior class of Saltcreek high school at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the school auditorium.

Pupils in the play are Betty Woodward, Florence Lutz, Esther Hoy, Charles Jones, Philip Enoch, Thelma Williams, Everett Tatman, Mabel Imbler, Carolyn Reichelderfer, Jean Dearth and Francis Hupp. The play is under the direction of Miss Jeanita Bartram.

lection and approved the Red Cross as the logical collection agency. The organization has the facilities and personnel to carry on the project under the latest scientific developments.

The Bloodmobile is scheduled to be in Circleville at First Methodist church on Dec. 20.

JOHNSON said the purpose of the National Blood Program is to provide blood and blood derivatives to any person needing them regardless of race or creed. No charge will be made for the blood or its products although there may be the customary laboratory charge by the hospital and the professional fee of the physician.

One of the implications connected with the program is the scientific research that accompanies the National Blood Program. The national organization will sponsor research on a national scale and the results will be made available to the entire nation.

General advancement in the knowledge of medical authorities and the health status of American people will result from this research.

Fixed blood collection centers have been established throughout the United States and more are scheduled to open in the future. Officials estimate that it will take from three to five years to establish all fixed centers. Blood will be collected not only at these centers in the larger communities but by mobile units in communities that are too small to maintain fixed centers.

THE FIXED center supervises the collection of blood. Here blood is analyzed, typed, and processed. The blood is then returned to the community for use locally.

Before launching a blood program local Red Cross chapters obtain full approval of medical, hospital, and health organizations within their communities. The Red Cross does not force the program on any community which does not want it.

The organization does not plan to establish centers in those communities where needs are being served adequately by existing blood center facilities. However, if those centers wish to become a part of the National Blood program, provisions will be made for them to do so.

Teen Tips

Boys, it seems, aren't the only ones who want to earn some of the stuff that jingles in your pocket. Many high school girls, used to earning extra cash during the Summer, are looking for new ways to fatten their pocketbooks enough to help pay for new clothes, a permanent, a new record or two or a weekly movie.

Baby-sitting isn't the only answer to the "how-can-I-earn-some-money" question. But it's still a good one. One smart girl manages to get her studying done and take care of several active children by doing this: She takes a nap for an hour or two in the afternoon before the job begins. In the evening, she gives her entire attention to the children until they're tucked into bed and snoring. Then she does her studying and the afternoon nap helps her keep awake until she finishes the last assignment.

Tutoring is popular with girls who have top grades in languages and math. Perhaps you could tutor children or, if you're a junior or senior in high school, you could tutor grade-school students or high school freshmen who need extra instruction in French verbs or algebra.

If you're a whiz on the dance floor, perhaps you and a girl friend could make extra money teaching dancing to grade schoolers, high school freshmen or even grown-ups who want to bring their dancing up-to-date or want to learn to dance, but never before had the time or opportunity.

A girl who lives in a college town has a nice little typing business that she can fit into her spare time very conveniently. She types students' papers—all kinds—at regular fees.

If you like to work with food, there may be a possibility of a job for you in the school lunchroom. Or perhaps you could help cook and serve dinner for the bridge club and do weekly dishwashing jobs when your neighbors entertain.

Children's Home Panel To Meet

Pickaway County children's home committee, a civic group made up of representatives of about 10 different organizations, is to meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Dr. David Goldschmidt said the group would meet in the basement of the Elks lodge to hear a state welfare department representative.

The civic group has been pressing for improved conditions at the county's home for dependent children.

"Where's it come from, huh, Mister?"

"Up outta the ground, Mister?"

"Is it a oil well?"

"Whoa, Sonny, one at a time! I wish it did come right up from a well down there in the ground—it'd sure save a lot of trouble, and cost your Daddy less money! No, it comes here in great big trucks."

"Red ones?"

"Yep, real bright red ones. It came out of the ground at first, though, way down in Texas, or Oklahoma..."

"Where cowboys live?"

"That's right. The oil companies hunt and hunt for it, and dig holes way down deep in the ground to get it. It's just black stuff then, and sometimes gooey, and it's called crude oil. They send it through long pipes—some of them big enough for you to crawl through—all the way here to Ohio."

"That's where I live."

"Yeah! Some of this crude oil comes on boats, too. Powerful boats push strings of barges up the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers."

"I can say Mississippi. Listen... Mississippi. That's a funny word. What happens then?"

"Well, the oil comes into big places called refineries. They're all full of pipes, and valves and machinery. That's where they make the black crude oil into gasoline and oil for your Daddy's car, and fuel oil that keeps your house warm all winter and lots of other things. And then the big trucks..."

"...the red ones?"

"Yep, the red ones. They bring it here to us dealers, and we put it in your Daddy's car like I'm doing now."

"Gee, that's a lotta stuff they do."

"Sure is. You want to be in the oil business when you grow up?"

"Now, I'm gonna be a shortstop!"

STEP TOWARD ORDER
The action of the United Nations Political Committee on the Korean question is a diplomatic victory for the United States, although the immediate result is unpredictable. The Committee has endorsed the government at Seoul, in the American occupation zone, set up under the supervision of the United Nations commission. This vindicates United States support and protection of the Seoul government, the legality of which was challenged by Russia.
To Western minds this action is a slap at Russia, which refused to allow the commission to enter Russian-occupied North Korea, established a Communist government there, and wants to prevent acceptance of the Seoul regime.
However it may be of questionable wisdom to maintain that the Seoul government represents all of Korea. If Russia proceeds to vacate North Korea, as Moscow has said will be done, what then? If the Seoul government attempts to assert authority over North Korea, will the people there receive them as rightful officials or as invaders and usurpers? Would they receive any more kindly the United Nations commission, seeking to unify the administration of Korea?
The division of Korea was made by the occupation. Only time can show whether any persistent differences have been created. Endorsement of the Seoul government looks like a step toward order, since it recognizes that this government was set up by proper United Nations procedure. It remains to be seen whether moves which seem to divide peoples will finally lead to harmony and peace.

ARMY JUSTICE
The revision of the Army system of courts-martial should remove one of the more deep-seated causes of the average soldier's sense of discrimination between officers and enlisted men. The administration of justice is a pressure felt by every individual, whether or not he is or ever expects to be on the defendant's side of the bar.
We have so long been used to the American privilege of trial by a jury of one's peers that we have forgotten how important that is in enabling the individual to look on the Law as a friend rather than a foe. In the Army the enlisted man has not had that guarantee, for when accused of a court-martial offense he has been subject to trial before a court, combining the functions of judge and jury, composed exclusively of officers. Who can guess how much of unfairness this situation has generated?
This and other changes being made to "democratize" the services are largely the result of complaints from the millions, strictly civilians at heart, who were in war service and after return to civilian life did not hesitate to explain what they thought was wrong. The services, like other departments of government and like private establishments, need an occasional combing out.

Inside WASHINGTON
MARCH OF EVENTS
Washington Asks Question: See Satellites Tiring of Soviets' Broken Promises
Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—There is a suspicion in official Washington circles that Russia has just about overexpanded and will have to back down soon in her moves for world domination.
True, the latest maneuver of the Soviets in Berlin and the great civil war in China do not directly nourish the suspicion.
Nevertheless, there are some indications that the Marshall Plan is working well and that the Soviet satellites, when they finally discover that they can get nothing from Moscow except broken promises, will move away from the Russian orbit.
The first crack in the Red front is, of course, Yugoslavia. However, despite Marshal Tito's reiterations of faith in Premier Josef Stalin, that breach is widening rather than narrowing. There appears to be a growing indication that if trouble were to come, Tito would cast his lot with the west—of dubious worth, of course, to the west.
The European situation is expected to improve mightily when the United States gets a rearmament program in full swing for the western democracies and joins in a North Atlantic military pact.
FRIENDLY CONGRESS FOR AVIATION—Air Force expansion may face a rocky road in the 81st Congress.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days
No matter how astute the imaginative mind may be in planning deceptions, the truth will out some time or other. And the truth about our foreign policy and our foreign relations is that, for at least 10 years and probably longer, they have been managed to the detriment of the United States.
This is not accidental. A policy must be conceived and carried out by men. It will not be better than the men are fit to service it.
Unfortunately, the man responsible for the conception and conduct of our foreign policy, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is dead and is unable to add his testimony to the horrible tale being gathered by the federal grand jury in New York and the Thomas committee. His closest associate in this work, Harry Hopkins, is dead, too. Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, has left a record, but it does not provide the key to the confusion, since he himself admits that he was not consulted on the most important questions of policy. Henry Morgenthau Jr. also wrote much, but as one reads it today, it becomes increasingly clear that he was rarely in the know.
The confusion is highlighted by the Chambers-Hiss case, which proves one thing beyond doubt: the State Department was a chaotic organization, badly administered, without a sense of the security of the nation. This was due to many causes, not the least of which was the elimination of the trained and expert "career" men and the employment in their stead of young lawyers, ideologically conditioned to an antagonism to American traditional policies.
For instance, consider Far Eastern affairs, with which I am most familiar. That policy had for many years been directed by Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, a recognized authority on the subject, a man of great knowledge and long experience. He was sent to represent this country somewhere in Europe from which, in due course, he resigned. In his place, as the controlling individual in charge of the Far East, was placed Lauchlin Currie, a newly naturalized Canadian, unattached by habit or tradition to the United States and not particularly expert in Far Eastern affairs. Also, all sorts of doctrinaire persons, not in any manner associated with China or Japan or any Far Eastern country, emerged as authorities. Then there was the "Amerasia" case, in the course of which State Department files were found not in the State Department but in a magazine in New York which had consistently taken a pro-Russian position. Nothing very important was done about that.
Or let us consider the vast authority of Alger Hiss. No matter what comes of the Chambers-Hiss case, it is impossible to understand how documents which Hiss wrote and which obviously he had no right to show to anyone, not immediately concerned with security problems, found their way to Chambers, who says Hiss gave them to him—which Hiss, of course, denies.
Yet, Alger Hiss, whose name was included in a list sent to the Department of Justice by the Dies Committee in 1941 as a member of the Harold Ware group of Communists infiltrating the government—this Alger Hiss was one of the most important new men in the State Department; he was one of Roosevelt's experts at Yalta; he organized the San Francisco conference, which gave Soviet Russia two memberships in the United Nations while the United States got only one; it was at San Francisco that the veto was made the instrument of Soviet power in the United Nations, the charter of which Hiss was an author.

Stubborn Condition to Cure
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
THERE is a condition which, although not fatal, surely is bothersome and annoying. And, incidentally, it is also one of the most irritating and difficult to treat disorders with which human beings are afflicted. In this condition there is itching around the lower opening of the bowel. Its exact cause may be difficult to determine in many cases.
Recently, the idea has been presented that it may be due in many instances to allergy or oversensitivity. The patient may be oversensitive to some food which he eats, to fungi or molds or bacteria, or he may also be sensitive to drugs or chemical substances with which he comes in contact.
Due to Allergy
Treatment for the itching has been based on the idea that it is due to allergy. A number of measures are used.
If the area around the opening of the bowel is inflamed, and severe itching, and the secretion of fluids are present, the application of an ice pack will give some relief. Compresses of a preparation known as Burow's solution are also used. If the inflammation of the skin is due to contact with material coming from the bowel, the skin area may be covered with zinc oxide ointment before the bowel movement.
It is important that all clothing and bed linen be washed with non-irritating materials. Bleaching agents may often be a cause of allergic reactions.

Looking Back In Pickaway County
FIVE YEARS AGO
Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cloud of Ashville are parents of a son born Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hill and family of Northridge road are moving to Warren where Mr. Hill recently purchased an implement business.
Mrs. Enid Denham of Freeport, N. Y., has been employed as Circleville public librarian.
TEN YEARS AGO
George W. Groom, employee of the county engineer's office, is on a week's vacation.
Local DAR chapter conducted its holiday meeting in the home of Mrs. George Roth on North Scioto street.
Miss Eloise Hanley, who has been making her home in El Centro, Calif., has returned to visit her mother, Mrs. Edwin Wilson, and other relatives in the Circleville community.

due to opposition by President Truman, out aviation on the whole will have a sympathetic audience on Capitol Hill.
In contrast to the situation of the last two years, in which the GOP Congress formulated its own aviation policy in opposition to administration recommendations, the president's ideas will go to a receptive Congress and vice versa.
Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D), Colorado, long an aviation enthusiast, will become chairman of the Senate commerce committee and Rep. Robert Crosser (D), Ohio, will head the commerce committee of the House.
Johnson probably will designate himself chairman of the aviation subcommittee in the upper chamber. Rep. Alfred L. Bulwinkle (D), North Carolina, will head up aviation in the House. Both are air-minded.
In the military air field, Senator Millard E. Tydings (D), Maryland, and Rep. Carl Vinson (D), Georgia, will take over the two potent armed services committees. Both supported the 70-group Air Force.
UNIONS READY OFFENSIVES—Strong new union drives are in the offing. This was one fact which emerged from the recent AFL and CIO national conventions.
Labor will launch an all-out campaign to enroll members from among six million unorganized white collar workers. CIO President Philip Murray is especially enthusiastic on this point.
Murray severely criticized the left-wing United Public Workers and United Office and Professional workers for their failure to sign up any appreciable number of office employees.
Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers is already seeking bargaining rights for office workers at Ford's Lincoln division.
Other fertile fields for union organizers are expected to be plant guards and foremen. The Independent Foremen's Association is getting busy in anticipation of repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and its denial of collective bargaining rights to supervisors.

DIET AND HEALTH
Stubborn Condition to Cure
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
A number of patients with this condition were treated with pyribenzamine, one of the preparations known as an anti-histamine. These preparations aid in eliminating excessive histamine, which is formed in the body of those with allergies.
Given By Mouth
Of 90 patients treated, 57 had satisfactory results. The preparation is given by mouth. It seems to control the itching in the majority of patients so that scratching is eliminated. Of course, scratching only tends to make the condition worse because of the inflammation of the skin which it produces.
The pyribenzamine was also used in the form of an ointment which was applied to the affected area. If the preparation is going to be effective, the itching should be controlled within 10 minutes after it is administered.
Other measures employed consisted of omission from the diet of anything sour, bitter or salty, all highly-seasoned foods, and all forms of alcohol.
After the bowel movement, the skin area is wiped with wet cotton and the region covered with a fine layer of cotton. The patients were advised not to take tub baths.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Q. U. What would cause pain in a shoulder blade?
A. Answer: This may be due to inflammation of the muscle nerves, or what is known as bursitis. The bursa is a sac containing fluid and located near a joint.

Cecil Brown brought back from Italy the story of a holy father in a monastery at Montefiascone who noticed a stranger plodding slowly up the hill in his general direction. What attracted his attention was the stranger's peculiar gait: after each step he would lift his feet—first the left one, then the right one—and shake it as though he were trying to get sand out of his shoe.
Finally the stranger reached the top of the hill and asked the father for absolution. "Certainly, my son," was the reply, "but first, won't you tell me why you shake your feet in that strange manner before every step?"
"Oh, that is to shake these tiny bells you will note attached to the toes of my boots," answered the stranger. "I could not bear to step on any of the thousands of insects and bugs crawling on the ground. The sound of my bells warns them to get out of my way."
"How thoughtful," marveled

All About Marriage
by ETHEL HUESTON
Copyright, 1948, by Ethel Hueston

Distributed by King Features Syndicate
CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
"Well, could you tell me this?"
"There's nothing unpleasant in your name life, something that doesn't show on the surface but still is there? Something that might turn a girl against the thought of marriage?"
"Why, Mark? What an idea! I think we have had a particularly happy home life. Oh, I don't mean things have always been sunshine and light. They haven't. We have had our problems and our heartaches. Alan and I used to get on each other's nerves sometimes. We used to quarrel. We don't any more. Now we laugh and make jokes about the very things that used to annoy us. I suppose I was nervous and irritable sometimes; the children bothered me more than they did Alan. He was much more patient. Whatever gave you any such idea?"
"What Donna said, Mrs. Collwell. Oh, not about the family, not about her home! She said she loved me but she knew all about marriage and didn't want any part of it. Love, yes; marriage, no. I thought all she knew about marriage she must have learned right here and I wondered if perhaps she had developed wrong conceptions about things. Sometimes girls get odd ideas. But that is what she said and that is why I am asking you."
"But what did she mean?"
"I don't know. But that is what she said."
"That she knows all about marriage and wants no part of it. That's odd. It took her a long time to reach that conclusion."
"She says it didn't. She says she never intended to marry me, not from the very beginning."
"It isn't like Donna to be timid or shy about—well, what we call the marriage relationship." Mrs. Collwell mused frowningly. "Donna isn't timid."
"It isn't that. At least, she says it isn't. She seems dead set against home life, the domestic state."
"Is that it?"
"That's what she said. So, when I decided to try to work the thing out, I thought if we could find out what she was against marriage, we would know where to start to overcome her prejudice."
"That is the strangest thing I ever heard, Mark. I don't know what to make of it. Are you sure you understood her correctly?"
"Yes. Maybe she has picked up some cockeyed notions from all those lousy books and movies where marriage certainly leaves a lot to be desired. But Donna has too much sense, too firm a background, to be thrown off-balance by artificialities cooked up for so-called entertainment. There's too much wholesome realism about Donna for that."
"I never was so surprised in my life. Mark, Alan and I tried to figure it out. We couldn't. I thought maybe she had fallen for somebody in New York but she says she hasn't. Alan thought maybe she had grown overfond of her job but she denies it. And certainly it is not true to Donna's general nature—not as we know it."
"Of course there has been a lot of trouble with these hasty marriages among our friends. Maybe it frightened her. Or perhaps she was upset about David."

dying and leaving Annette, so young, with a baby to raise. But Donna has never seemed timid about anything. I am convinced if we knew what she thinks she knows about marriage, we would have a good starting point."
"Why don't you ask her, Mark?"
"I did. She says she knows all about it."
"And wants no part of it?"
"That's right."
"Mark, I wonder if all those girls in that apartment are as nice as Donna seems to think? She must have heard—something from somebody, something shocking and disgusting and unbearable."
"She says this is nothing new. And she reminded me that when I talked of marriage and our home together and having children, she used me and said nothing. And thinking back over it, I realize it is true. I took her kisses for concurrence. They weren't. They were silencers. She said so herself."
"I am going to ask her about it, Mark. May I tell her you came and talked to me? She really owes it to us, Alan and me, to clear this up. It is a terrible indictment of our home."
"Don't worry about it, Mrs. Collwell. It probably isn't connected with your home at all. It just seemed to me the most obvious explanation. Perhaps as a child she saw something somewhere that made a ghastly impression on her and she has not been able to outgrow it."
"But she would have told me, Mark! You know how Donna is, how she's always been—so frank, so outspoken, so happy about everything. If she had ever had any horrible experience she would have told me."
"Are you sure, Mrs. Collwell? Sammy Ingram gave me something to think about there. She doesn't think Donna is nappy at all; she thinks her gaiety and laughter are clever shields to hide her real feelings and thoughts."
"Why, Mark! How can you say that? Donna has always been happy! David's death was the only sorrow she ever had in her life. Everything has been easy for her, easy and happy and safe. Are you sure that is what she said, Mark, Donna, I mean?"
"I know all about marriage and I want no part of it," he quoted gravely.
"I will ask her, Mark. I have a right to ask her. After all, this is bringing the problem pretty close to home. Too close. I will ask her."
Donna acquiesced cheerfully to her mother's request by telephone that she come home for the night.
"Was little old scaredy-cat Mummy lonesome up there in the sticks all by herself?" she asked gaily. "Sure, you big strong protector will gallop right up and scare away the boogymonies. I may have to stay in town over the week end though to catch up, but Dad will be there then to keep you company. I have a nasty little research job on hand and it calls for midnight oil and aspirin. I'll leave early. Want me to bring anything?"
Mrs. Collwell did not want anything, any material thing. But for some reason which she did not understand she felt she must see her daughter alone before her husband returned. The bombshell Mark had tossed her could be tackled more

100 Attend Ladies' Night Program Sponsored By Circleville Kiwanians

Mentalist Tops Varied Program

Nearly 100 persons attended the annual Winter "Ladies' Night" sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening. Staged in Pickaway Country Club, the dinner meeting featured Dr. Robert Nelson, Columbus mentalist, who demonstrated mind-reading.

Other features on the program were a gift exchange for the honored ladies, music by Circleville high school girls' sextet, piano solos, and a manequin-dressing contest with male contestants.

Nelson's mind-reading demonstration answered questions previously written on slips of paper by members of the audience. The slips of paper presumably did not leave the hand of the writer.

Nelson not only answered the question, but identified the writer as well. The questions concerned personal affairs, some of which were inclined to be embarrassing for the writer.

The girls' sextet was heard in two numbers, accompanied by the Kiwanis Club pianist, Sue Brown. Members of the sextet were Jean Heine, Ruth Troutman, Nancy Eschelman, Jeanine Bell, Nancy Sensesbrenner and Beverly Reid. Miss Reid, one-time Kiwanis pianist, was heard in two piano solos.

The manequin-dressing contest featured John Heiskell and Bill Lanman. Problem was to completely dress the dummy.

A guest at the dinner meeting was Donald Jones, who represented the national blood program of the American Red Cross.

Jones, here to boost interest in the Bloodmobile which will appear in Circleville Dec. 20, detailed the workings of the blood donor program.

He explained that the Bloodmobile would appear in Pickaway County eight times a year, would expect to receive a quota of 100 pints of whole blood each trip.

He said the blood would be processed in the Columbus ARC blood center, would be classified according to Types A, B, AB and O. The Rh factor would be determined in the case of each sample. Part of the blood will be returned to Berger hospital here—the amount to be determined by local needs.

Holiday Party Staged By Club

Soliqua Garden Club held its annual Christmas party in the home of Mrs. E. A. Payne, assisted by Mrs. Russell Perrill.

Mrs. Payne's Ashville home was decorated throughout with mistletoe, holly and cedar. Gifts for the exchange were placed under a lighted Christmas tree.

Mrs. Cecil Ward lead the group in singing carols. Mrs. Perrill related "The Christmas Story." Short talks were given by Mrs. Donald H. Watt of Circleville, and Mrs. Ray Smith of Chillicothe.

'Christmas In Song And Story' Heard At Monday Club

Mrs. James P. Moffitt presided for the meeting of Monday Club in Memorial hall. Secretarial report was read by Mrs. Barton Deming.

At the business session Mrs. Moffitt appointed two committees, one for "The Sale of Work by the Blind," composed of Mrs. David Harmon, chairman, Mrs. R. R. Bales and Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, the other a "Ways and Means" committee composed of Mrs. Collis Young, Mrs. Robert Young, Mrs. Walter Kindler and Mrs. N. L. Cochran.

The meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Arthur K. Johnson, who introduced Mrs. W. T. Ulm, narrator for the program. Mrs. Ulm's subject was "Christmas in Story and Song."

Mrs. Ulm's first story was "How Come Christmas" by Roark Bradford, which was the origin of Christmas as told by some Negro children. Following this Mrs. Ralph Smith sang "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," by Mac. Ginsey and "Mary's Slumber Song" by Hamblen.

The narrators second story was "The Other Wise Man," by Henry Van Dyke. This was followed by a solo, by Mrs. Arthur Wagar, "We Three Kings of the Orient Are," by John Henry Hopkins.

Mrs. Ulm explained the meaning of carols. She said: "Originally a carol meant a dance. Gradually it came to mean a joyous tune or one to which people danced. Long ago strolling bands of minstrels or troops of little children going from door to door in the street and highways of Old England sang and scattered these songs throughout the land. Today this custom is being followed, more and more in this country."

Monday Club Chorus sang four numbers. Mrs. Dudley Carpenter sang a solo and a quartet composed of Miss Rosemary Schreiner, Mrs. Robert Wallace, Mrs. Wagar and Mrs. Smith, presented two numbers. A duet was sung by Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Wagar.

Court League Suspended; Coliseum Said 'Too Cold'

Pickaway County Alumni Basketball League has been indefinitely discontinued.

Frank Wilkins, league head, said Tuesday the league would be inactive until he found "a suitable" place to hold league games.

The league has been holding its weekly sessions in Fairgrounds Coliseum, which Wilkins has termed "too expensive and too cold."

He said fans would not turn out when the games are played in the Coliseum because of lack of heat.

Games scheduled for this Thursday were to have been the last of the first round games, with the Circleville alumni team looking for the first round title.

To date the CHS'ers are the only team to sport an unblemished record in league play. They have copped all six of their games to hold a perfect 1,000 percent record.

The CHS grads will defend their title when league play resumes against Williamsport, ranked next-to-last in league standings.

Except for a possible upset in the title tilt, alumni league fans will be eyeing the fight between Monroe and Pickaway grads for second place in the league.

Both teams have won five of their six starts to date, and will be ranked two-three in final league standings after their game since no other team is close enough to challenge.

JACKSON GRADS will be given one last chance to pull itself from the deep, deep cellar league position in the alumni competition when it plays Scioto. Jackson has sole claim to the basement, having lost all its games to date this season. Its foe, Scioto, fares little better, ranking in third-from-last position with a record of two wins in six starts.

Last of the unplayed encounters will be a match between Walnut and New Holland. A New Holland win would give both teams a record of three wins in six starts for the season and a tie for fourth place.

Following the playoffs for the first round championship a nominating committee will announce its all-star selection.

The All-Stars will be a team of 10 of the most outstanding players in the league, and will play exhibition games during the remainder of the season with out-of-county clubs.

Jim Weaver of Walnut holds high scoring honors going into the last game of the first round, having scored 78 points to date for his team.

Trailing him are Jack Hix of Monroe with 76, Bill Weller of Circleville with 66 and Bob Young of Pickaway with 57.

League standings and records of the league-leading scorers follow:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Circleville	6	0	1.000
Monroe	5	1	.833
Pickaway	5	1	.833
Walnut	5	1	.833

Life Suspension Case Given Back To District 7

Directors of the U. S. Trotting Association District Seven had the problem of six drivers under lifetime suspensions tossed right back in their laps Tuesday.

The 33 USTA directors gathered in Columbus from throughout the country, voted Monday night to lift the suspensions of Drivers Lou Huber Jr., who trains at Pickaway Fairgrounds; George Rappenburg of Muncie, Ind.; Harold Snodgrass of Indianapolis; Bernard Shepherd of South Beloit, Ill.; Herman Stepro of Corydon, Ind.; and Art Phillips of Hamburg, N. Y.

These drivers were accused of fixing races at Brentland near Louisville last summer.

However the directors said the suspensions were "reversed on jurisdictional grounds" and investigation of the controversial races was referred back to District Seven directors, the men who laid down the suspensions.

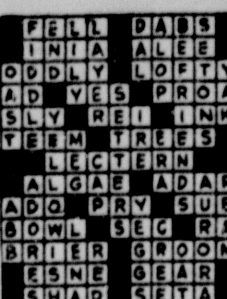

Earlier, Howard B. Carroll, of Rochester, N. Y., withdrew his request for a 62-night meeting at Phoenix, Ariz. Carroll, president of the Phoenix Raceway Association, will hand in his request again within five days to the president of the USTA.

In other actions, the USTA cleared John Taylor of London of charges of doping a horse, Chase Me, at Lexington, Ky. Taylor who showed himself to be innocent in a lie detector test was under investigation but not suspension.

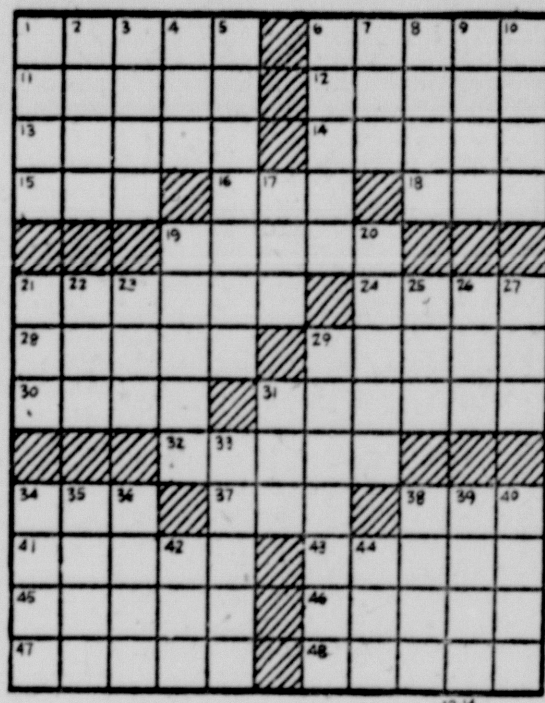

Also, Don Millar, formerly of Hartford, Conn., was appointed assistant to USTA President H. J. Knauf of Ladd, Ill. Millar came to Columbus with the USTA headquarters.

Happy Ready To Judge The Lip's Actions Again

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who says he has "bent over backwards" to give Leo Durocher a break, judges Lippy Leo again today.

The New York Giant manager will plead innocent in a closed hearing to charges that he or any other Giant officer "tampered" by dealing for Freddie Fitzsimmons' services while the ex-pitcher was still on the Boston Braves' reserve list.

Chandler said that "some people declare I am out to 'get' Durocher." But he asserted he has gone out of his way to be lenient with the Lip since handing him a year's suspension from baseball 20 months ago for "deliberate" conduct.

As an example of his leniency, Chandler cited a West Coast all-star game more than a year ago when Durocher, while under suspension, made an appearance as token "manager" at a benefit contest which violated baseball's barnstorming stipulations. The commissioner took no action.

Chandler declared last night:

"DUROCHER may be a selfish and impulsive man, but he is not mean and he is not malicious. Leo just doesn't think. He rushes into things blindly and does his thinking afterwards. That sort of thing doesn't work. You have to think of other people."

In the Giant camp, Durocher said he would plead "not guilty."

Baseball Deals Numerous In Big Loop Meet

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—A $100,000 deal between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns and a straight player-swap between the World Champion Cleveland Indians and Washington Senators topped a rash of trading activity today at baseball's big league meetings.

The Yanks shelled out the $100,000 and gave up Pitchers Red Embree and Dick Starr and Catcher Sherman Lollar for Browns Pitcher Fred Sanford and Catcher Roy Partee. Sanford won 12, lost 21 for the Browns last year. Partee hit .203.

The Yankees also agreed to send Partee to one of their farm clubs, while the Browns may make whatever use they can of Lollar, who hit .211. Embree won five, lost three. Starr had an average year with Newark of the International League.

In the Indian-Senator swap, Cleveland sent First Baseman Eddie Robinson and Pitchers Ed Klieeman and Joe Haynes to Washington for First Baseman Mickey Vernon and Pitcher Early Wynn in a straight player deal.

But that wasn't all that happened. Consider:

1. The Yankees traded First Baseman Steve Souchock, who batted .203 for New York last season, to the Chicago White Sox in exchange for Outfielder Jimmy Deling, a .333 hitter with Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League, and another player to be delivered at a later date.
2. The New York Giants sold Pitcher Ken Trinkle to the Philadelphia Phillies for an undisclosed amount of cash.
3. The Phillies sold Utility Man Carvel Rowell to Minneapolis of the American Association.
4. The White Sox announced appointment of C. W. Hayes as business manager of their Muskegon, Mich., farm team in the Class A Central League.

Ashville Edges Columbus Team By 14-12 Score

Ashville Lutheran Brotherhood basketball team chalked up its fifth win in as many starts Monday with a 14-12 win over St. Matthew's of Columbus.

The slow-scoring game ended with a 7-7 tie at the end of the first 10-minute half. Ashville duplicated its first half score to win while holding the St. Matthews to but five points in the final frame.

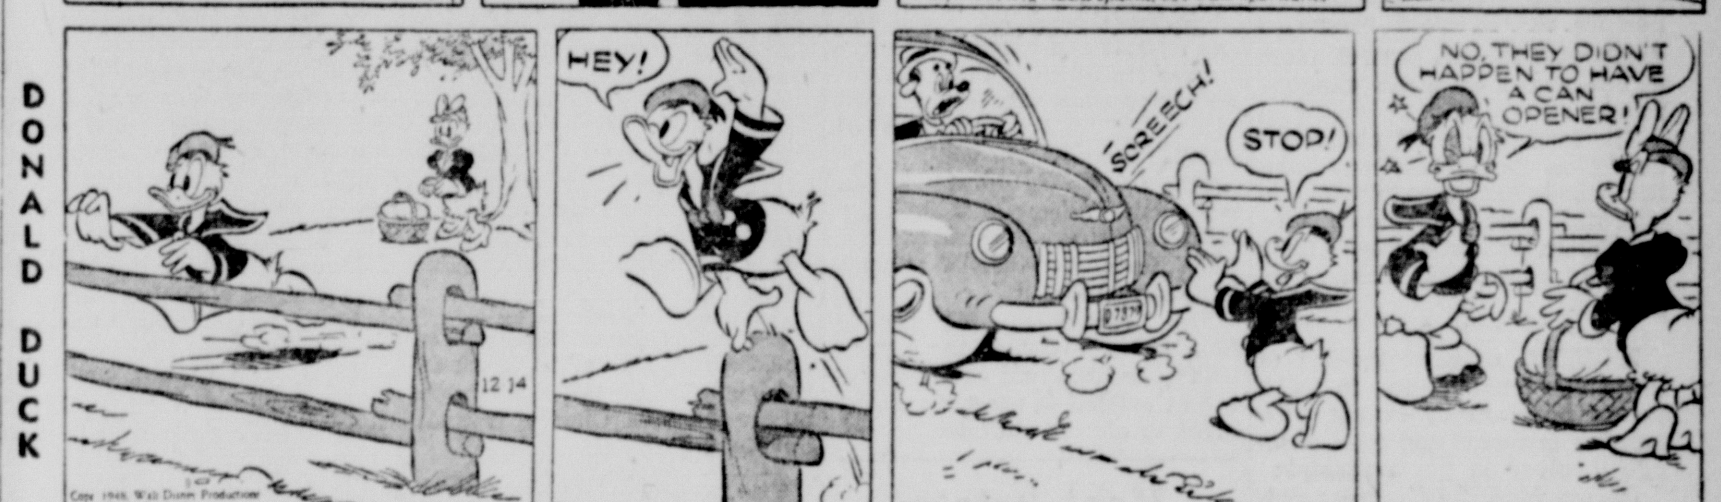

Jim Ward of Ashville was high scorer in the tilt with six points, trailed by Martin Grego of the St. Matthew's team with four.

Juniors Chalk 28-20 Victory At Laurelville

Circleville junior high school basketball team Monday chalked up its second win in as many starts this season when it invaded Laurelville to post a 28-20 victory.

High scoring honors in the tilt were garnered by Clarence Boyd of the Circleville team, who netted 12 points in the encounter. Richard Bradney and Don Chilcote led Laurelville in scoring with six points each.

Next tilt for the junior highers will be Monday, when they are scheduled to invade at Chillicothe St. Mary's.

50 More Soil Conservation Farms Join Local District

9,319 Acres Involved In County Plan

Muster Details Co-Op Problem

Fifty additional conservation farm plans, covering 9,319 acres, were prepared in 1948 by Pickaway County farmers cooperating with the U. S. soil conservation district.

J. A. Muster, soil conservationist, said in the three years the conservation service has been in operation in the Pickaway district, 157 farms covering 28,073 acres, have adopted soil building practices.

He reported these practices included balancing grain, hay, pasture and livestock programs along with erosion control, farm drainage and woodland management.

The land use in all plans was based on the capability of the many soils found, so that the cooperating farmers realize the maximum net income from their farming operations, Muster explained.

MUSTER detailed the list of townships participating in this year's program by listing the number of farms and total acreage involved in the townships:

Darby, nine, 2,102 acres; Scioto, nine, 1,348 acres; Monroe, nine, 1,348 acres; Jackson, two, 738 acres; Wayne, four, 910 acres; Walnut, five, 492 acres; Madison, three, 343 acres; Deer Creek, two, 544 acres; Muhlenberg, two, 455 acres; Perry, two, 378 acres; Pickaway, two, 154 acres; Salt Creek, one, 313 acres; Washington, one, 100 acres; and Harrison, one, 96 acres.

Among the major conservation practices adopted were 400 acres of contour farming; 250 acres of pastures improved; 207 acres of pastures seeded; nearly two miles of standard terraces and 1,400 feet of diversion terraces built.

Also, 34,622 feet of tile lines installed; 11,000 feet of open ditches enlarged; 2,090 feet of fence row planted in multi-flora rose; seven acres of trees planted; 54 acres of woodlands improved and fenced.

Another 15,750 feet of waterways improved or built or seeded; and either more lime or better use of it was made on approximately 3,600 acres and improved fertilizer practices applied on 5,500 acres of crops and pasture.

Important to the 1948 program was the fact that three groups of farmers from Darby, Scioto and Monroe Townships, attended educational meetings held prior to the planning of their farms, Muster said.

From the results obtained, the conservationist is planning to conduct a wider scale of planning meetings to be organized this winter for the 1949 season.

Alumni Taking Side In School Closing Dispute

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14 — Suburban Twinsburg's school board had the backing today of nearly 100 alumni of the township's high school, currently closed because of a dispute between pupils and Superintendent Glen Powell.

Frederick L. Witt, school board president, said last night that he had received an expression of confidence signed by 98 alumni.

On the other hand, however, E. G. Shupe, a trustee of the Real Estate Owners Association, said that he is making progress in getting citizens to sign recall petitions, demanding the removal of all board members.

The school closed yesterday, following a mass resignation by all the school's teachers and Powell, who was bound over to Summit County common pleas court last week on an assault and battery charge.

John Hegedish, service station operator, charged that Powell "slammed" his son, Ronald, against a classroom wall.

The Twinsburg dispute began last month when pupils staged a week-long strike because of what they termed Powell's "high-handed methods."

The Twinsburg Citizens League, in favor of the school board, and the real estate group are scheduled to meet tomorrow night to air the situation.

The Ashville waterworks board, met in regular session Monday evening with routine business occupying most of the time. Work on the new softener will get under way in earnest when necessary supplies arrive and extension of the East Lawn water main will probably be made in the Spring.

Class officers for the Ashville eighth grade were elected Monday as follows: President, Bob Bowers; Vice President, Noel Rader; Treasurer, Mabel Franks; Secretary, Virginia Grove.

The members of the Ashville-Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood will hold a pot luck supper at the Ashville Church Wednesday at 7:00 p. m.

The December meeting of the Ashville PTA will be held Thursday with special music by the Women's Civic Club and a discussion between teachers and parents featuring the program.

Sailor Married, Thanks To Aid By City Aide

BOSTON, Dec. 14 — Mike Manning, Boston's good natured city registrar, has come to the rescue again.

Apprentice Navy Fireman Warren L. Amos, of Dale, Ind., and Miss Eleanor Calvano, of East Boston, went to Manning's office last Friday to obtain a marriage license but found themselves faced with a real problem.

It seemed that Warren was two months short of being 21 years of age and parental consent was necessary before the marriage license could be issued.

Young Warren was unable to reach his father in Indiana and as a last resort prepared to fly there so the wedding scheduled for yesterday would not have to be postponed.

Manning then intervened. Michael called the sailor's cousin, a Spencer County, Ind., deputy sheriff and left word to have the youth's father call the city registrar's office collect. The father wasn't long in calling and giving his blessing.

Manning issued the license and granted a five-day waiver.

Amos and Eleanor were married on time in Sacred Heart church, East Boston. The charges for the call from Indiana to Boston were picked up by Manning.

"I made it a wedding gift," he said.

No Divorces During Holidays

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 14—Following a custom several years old, Butler County Common Pleas Judges Fred B. Cramer and P. P. Bolli said they will hear no divorce cases during the Christmas holidays.

In the last few years, they said, several couples have been reunited while planning Christmas events for their children.

Beginning Saturday, no case will be tried until after the New Year. Said the judges:

"If we prevent only one marriage from ending in divorce, the holiday will be an outstanding success."

There are about 183,000 miles of highways, 518,000 miles of roads and 313,000 miles of trails now serving America's forest lands.

Crackdown Due On Mail Order Weed Houses

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—It was practically a sure thing today that the 81st U. S. Congress would be asked to crack down on mail order houses offering cigarettes for sale in nine states.

These would be the states with no cigarette or use taxes. The organizations which will play a great part in sponsoring a bill to put the mail order houses out of business would be the National Association of Tobacco Distributors, Inc., of New York, and the National Tobacco Tax Administrators' Association.

These two groups were behind a bill introduced in the House last session by Rep. Tom Jenkins, (R) Ironton, and by Sen. John Bricker, (R) Columbus, in the senate.

The bill, which passed the House and was tabled by the Senate finance committee, would have put a $1 thousand penalty on any inter-state cigarette shipper which failed to notify the taxing authority of a receiving state of the identity of the consumer.

The NATD estimates that these dubious shippers account for as much as 20 percent of the cigarette consumption in the U. S. and are draining about $60 million from 39 states with cigarette and use taxes.

Officials mentioned one such agency working out of Huntington, W. Va., which he said merely accepted orders for which the cigarettes were shipped out of a non-taxing state.

They pointed out that the states were powerless to act against the shippers now because "no state can interfere with the free movement of goods."
